Don't Miss Out on Smart Trips Month

There is still one week left of May, which means one more week of Smart Trips Month events to promote alternative transportation.

On Thursday, May 27, walkers can participate in the second Lunchtime Greenway Walk, a 30-minute walk along the Neyland Greenway to Thompson Boling Arena before returning to World's Fair Park. The first 25 participants will get a free lunch and everyone who signs up will be entered in a drawing for a $50 Mast General Store gift card.

Bike enthusiasts can still enjoy a Greenway Ride on May 25 beginning at River Sports Outfitters, 2918 Sutherland Avenue, or the final ride of the Mast General Store Bike Ride Series on May 26. This casual ride will travel from Market Square to Bearden via the Second Creek and Third Creek Greenways. A Bike Roadside Repair Class will be held May 27 at 7 p.m. at Biketopia, 7328 Norris Freeway, and free Bike Safety Checks are still available at Fountain City Pedaler, 4620 Old Broadway Suite C.

Commuters should be sure to check out the Smart Trips website, www.knoxsmartrips.org, for free Carpool Ridematching, Transit Route Planning and the Bike Mentor Program. Smart Trips also will be at the Market Square Farmer's Market on May 26 to answer any transit and commuting questions.

Don't forget the Smart Trips Commuter Challenge continues until September 30. It's not too late to get your Be Green, Save Green discount card and try a new way of commuting while becoming eligible to win some fantastic prizes. For more information on the Commuter Challenge, go to www.knoxspat.com
